WELCOME TO THE 2011 NEW BRUNSWICK SUMMER MUSIC FESTIVAL

Richard Hornsby 🍷 Artistic Director

The 2011 New Brunswick Summer Music Festival has something to offer everyone. From our core evening concerts featuring some of Canada's finest classical musical artists to the 'Music Discovery Series' for families at the Charlotte St. Arts Centre to the free outdoor 'Mozart in the Park' and the Cathedral Concert, the festival offers great classical music in venues around Fredericton.

Our two-week festival always features two composers – one well known and one lesser known. This season we will be presenting the music of the great Russian composer, Peter I. Tchaikovsky and the 20th century Canadian composer Murray Adaskin who had a long and prolific career helping to shape the Canadian musical voice.

Over two weeks the audience will have an opportunity to take in an event or two but we always encourage participation in a number of events in order to experience the music of these composers in a variety of settings.

We have artists at the top of their game including new faces such as Andrew Wan: the young concertmaster of the Montreal Symphony and the eclectic Chloé Dominguez on cello. We are also featuring a number of our nationally known regionally based artists such as Sally Dibblee and Peter Allen amongst a cast of other fine musicians.

Please join our musical celebration!
